<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Scoring Components</th>
<th>Page(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SC1 The course provides instruction on an introduction to Comparative Politics.</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC2 The course provides instruction in Sovereignty, Authority, and Power.</td>
<td>4, 5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC3 The course provides instruction in State and Nation.</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC4 The course provides instruction in Citizens and Society and the State.</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC5 The course provides instruction in Political Institutions.</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC6 The course provides instruction in Political and Economic Change.</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC7 The course provides instruction in Public Policy.</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC8 The course uses concrete examples from China, Great Britain, Iran, Mexico, Nigeria, and Russia including contemporary political changes, to illustrate the six major content areas of the course.</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC9 The course teaches students to compare and contrast political institutions and processes across countries to derive generalizations.</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC10 The course introduces students to the interpretation and analysis of data relevant to comparative government and politics.</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC11 The course requires students to write analytical and interpretive essays.</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SC12 The course includes supplemental readings that contain contemporary news analyses, thereby strengthening the students’ understanding of the curriculum.</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Overview

Note: This syllabus presents an example of how to teach the AP Comparative Government and Politics course and the AP United States Government and Politics course as one year-long course in government and politics.

This year-long college level course prepares students to take two AP Exams: United States Government and Comparative Government. The course is designed to teach students to understand and be able to critically analyze important concepts in both U.S. and comparative politics through the study of six core countries from AP Comparative Government (the United Kingdom, Mexico, Nigeria, Iran, Russia and China) and more in-depth study of American government and politics. As a college-level course, it is rigorous and demanding. It requires students to put forth their best effort on a daily basis, both in class and in reading and listening to the news outside of class. I welcome all students who are willing to work hard, but encourage students to consider another course if they are not willing to read 10 to 15 pages a night, enhance their understanding of concepts by listening, or reading the news, spend time outside of class experiencing politics and government in action, and coming to class consistently. [SC8]

Texts and Materials

- Supplementary articles from the Christian Science Monitor (CSM), the New York Times (NYT), and the Economist [SC12]

Homework and Daily Quizzes

Students have nightly homework assignments, primarily out of the textbook and from selected articles from the New York Times, the BBC, Christian Science Monitor and the Economist.

Sample Assignments and Assessment

Students are asked to:

- Research statistics from CIA fact book and application of comparative approach based on “Comparative Politics Made Simple” [SC10]

- Conduct field research (volunteer in local elections or attend local political events)

- Attend lectures by guest speakers from local political parties

SC 8 The course uses concrete examples from China, Great Britain, Iran, Mexico, Nigeria, and Russia including contemporary political changes, to illustrate the six major content areas of the course.

SC 12 The course includes supplemental readings that contain contemporary news analyses, thereby strengthening the students’ understanding of the curriculum.

SC 10 The course introduces students to the interpretation and analysis of data relevant to comparative government and politics.
• Research and prepare presentation for a part of a comparative chart (which compares six comparative countries and the U.S.)

• Write answers to College Board analytical FRQs (Free-Response Questions) at least every other week [SC11]

• Compare 2006 election stats with stats on 2005 UK election; compare election financing in UK with U.S. (use “Wanna an Argument?” site: http://www.bized.ac.uk/current/argument/arg17-1.htm)

• Compare written U.S. Constitution in U.S. with unwritten constitution of UK (see BBC website)

• Compare effects of federal and unitary systems by examining education systems

• Compare specific leadership transitions in China, Iran, Mexico, U.S., UK

• Have students determine ideology with “Ideolog” site and assess how that impacts their beliefs in the purpose of governments

• Research sites like Freedom House and Transparency International; present/discuss findings

• Have students discuss what makes human rights a reality and look at Mexico pre- and post-2000 to evaluate

• Examine exit poll data from U.S. and predict how it will impact 2006 elections then see how it does after the election

• Compare the U.S. presidential election in 2000 with Mexico’s Presidential election in 2006

• Discuss cleavages in comparative countries and how they impact political system and compare to U.S.

• Learn about referendums in core countries and evaluate as means of participation

• Identify students’ own agents of socialization and see how it would differ if raised in comp countries

• Research statistics on women in Parliament and analyze reasons behind them

• Look at public opinion polls in U.S. and UK and compare

• Show elected and non-elected institutions in Iran (use BBC website) and discuss how citizens participate [SC9]

• List forms of political participation and find examples from U.S., UK and Mexico, then compare to Nigeria and Iran

• Create definition of authoritarian system and see how it applies to Iran, China, Russia

SC 11 The course requires students to write analytical and interpretive essays.

SC 9 The course teaches students to compare and contrast political institutions and processes across countries to derive generalizations.
• Examine civil society (draw spheres) and compare

• Learn concepts like rule of law and transparency by examining their lack in China

• Compare media control by reading about Putin’s crackdown in Russia, China’s crackdown on the Internet, and discuss the effect based on reading about the impact of media in the U.S.

• Examine the role of parties in democracies and consider how it is the same and different in Russia and China

• Conduct Concord budget simulation

• Research one act in each of the policy areas and present

• Participate in “Mock Congress” designing bills based on research into policies in comparative countries

• Create “how a bill becomes a law” charts for each comparative country to compare to U.S.

• Watch Question Hour on CNN to compare relations between institutions

• Examine arguments about “imperial Congress” or “imperial presidency in contexts of definitions created earlier for concepts like democracy and authoritarian

• Define and compare judicial review in different legal systems

• Examine role of bureaucracies in U.S. and compare/contrast to democracies and non-democracies

• Link political culture to different institutional structures

Connections
Throughout each unit you must keep track of connections you make between things you hear about outside of class that are connected to things we are studying in class. Every time you hear something that reminds you of an issue, event or idea that we have studied in class, write it down or clip it out (your list can include pictures, cartoons, articles from magazines, etc.). You must be explicit in your connections. On each due date (see homework sheet) you must turn in 5 incredibly well-explained or 10 clearly explained connections. Details of this component are given out in class.

Course Plan
This course is organized thematically, using the six comparative countries and the United States as case studies to understand concepts covered in the AP topic outline for both AP U.S. Government and AP Comparative Government.
Unit One: Intro to Comparative Method and Liberal Democracies

Dates: September 5–October 12 (27 class days)

Comp Government

- Introduction to Comparative Politics (purpose and methods of comparison and classification; concepts of state, nation, regime, and government; process and policy; what is politics; purpose of government; what is political science/comparative; common policy challenges) [SC1]

- Sovereignty, Authority, and Power (constitutions: forms, purposes, application; regime types) [SC2]

State and Nation [SC3]

- Political Institutions (levels of government; executives, legislatures, parliamentary and presidential systems; institutional relations; elections, electoral systems; parties, party systems, leadership, and elite recruitment; bureaucracies; military; judiciaries)

- Country focus: Great Britain (see “Sample Assignments and Assessment” above for country-specific exercises)

U.S. Government

- Constitutional Underpinnings of U.S. Government (considerations that influenced the formulation and adoption of the U.S. Constitution; separation of powers; federalism; theories of democratic government)

- Civil Liberties and Civil Rights (development of civil liberties and civil rights by judicial interpretation; knowledge of substantive rights and liberties; impact of the Fourteenth Amendment on the constitutional development of rights and liberties)

Readings

- Hauss: Chapters 1, 2, 3, 4, 16

Unit Two: Civil Liberties and Civil Rights

Dates: October 13–November 2 (16 class days)

Comparative Government

- Sovereignty, Authority, and Power (constitutions: forms, purpose, application; regime types) [SC2]
- Public Policy (civil liberties, rights, and freedoms)
- Country focus; Mexico (see “Sample Assignments and Assessment” above for country-specific exercises)

U.S. Government

- Civil Liberties and Civil Rights (development of civil liberties and civil rights by judicial interpretation; knowledge of substantive rights and liberties; the impact of the Fourteenth Amendment on the constitutional development of rights and liberties)

Readings

- Hauss: Chapter 16

Additional Readings: U.S. Bill of Rights, excerpts from selected U.S. Supreme Court cases, Freedom House ratings, selected articles from the New York Times, the BBC, the Christian Science Monitor and the Economist

Unit Three: Political Culture and Participation

Dates: November 3–December 1 (18 school days)

Comparative Government

- Sovereignty, Authority, and Power (political culture, communication, and socialization; state building, legitimacy, and stability; belief systems as sources of legitimacy)
- Citizens, Society, and the State (cleavages and politics; civil society; political participation (forms/modes/trends) including political violence; social movements; citizenship and social representation) [SC4]
- Country focuses: Iran, Nigeria (see “Sample Assignments and Assessment” above for country-specific exercises)
U.S. Government

- Political beliefs and behaviors of individuals (beliefs that citizens hold about their government and its leaders; processes by which citizens learn about politics; nature, sources, and consequences of public opinion; ways in which citizens vote and otherwise participate in political life; factors that influence citizens to differ from one another in terms of political beliefs and behaviors)

Readings

- Hauss: Chapters 13, 15

Additional Readings: Selected articles from the New York Times, the Christian Science Monitor, the BBC and the Economist; sample readings from the O’Neil text to evaluate for adoption

Unit Four: Linkage Institutions and Change; Authoritarian versus Democratic Systems

Dates: December 4–January 22 (24 school days)

Comparative Government

- Sovereignty, Authority, and Power (regime types)
- Political Institutions (elections; political parties (organization, membership, institutionalization, ideological position); party systems, leadership, and elite recruitment; interest groups and interest group systems) [SC5] citizens, Society, and the State (civil society)
- Political and Economic Change (revolution, coups, and war; trends and types of political change (including democratization); trends and types of economic change (including privatization); relationship between political and economic change; globalization and fragmentation; interlinked economies, global culture, and reactions against globalization; regionalism [SC6]
- Country focus: Russia, China (see “Sample Assignments and Assessment” above for country-specific exercises)

U.S. Government

- Political parties, interest groups, and mass media: mechanisms that facilitate the communication of interests and preferences by like-minded citizens (political parties and elections; interest groups [including PACs], mass media)

Readings

- Hauss: Chapters 8, 9, and 10

SC 5 The course provides instruction in Political Institutions.

SC 6 The course provides instruction in Political and Economic Change.

Additional Readings: selected articles from the New York Times, the Christian Science Monitor, the BBC and the Economist; Neil Mitchell, “Illiberal Democracy and Vladimir Putin’s Russia” (AP Central); Jack Bielasiak, “Electoral Systems and Political Parties” (AP Central)

Unit Five: Institutions in the US (with a review of Comparative Institutions)

Dates: January 30–February 26 (18 school days)

Government

- Institutions of National Government: The Congress, the Presidency, the Bureaucracy, and the Federal Courts (the major formal and informal institutional arrangements of powers, relationships among these four institutions, and varying balances of power, Links between these institutions and the following: public opinion and voters, interest groups, political parties, the media, subnational governments)

Comparative Government

- Political Institutions (levels of government, executives, legislatures, parliamentary and presidential systems, institutional relations, elections, electoral systems, parties, party systems, leadership and elite recruitment, bureaucracies, military, judiciaries)

- Country focus: UK, Mexico, Nigeria, Iran, Russia, China (in review)

Readings

Unit Six: Public Policy [SC7]

Dates: February 26–March 30 (26 school days)

Comparative Government

- Sovereignty, Authority, and Power (types of economic systems)
- Political and economic change (trends and types of political change (including democratization), trends and types of economic change (including privatization), relationship between political and economic change, globalization and fragmentation: interlinked economies, global culture, reactions against globalization, regionalism)
- Public Policy (common policy issues, factors influencing public policymaking and implementation)

U.S. Government

- Public policy (policy-making in a federal system, the formation of policy agenda, the role of institutions in the enactment of policy, the role of the bureaucracy and the courts in policy implementation and interpretation, linkages)

Readings

- Hauss: Chapters 7 and 11

Additional Readings: selected articles from the New York Times, the Christian Science Monitor, the BBC and the Economist, Globalization Briefing Paper (AP Central)

Unit 7: Review for AP Exams and Final Exams for Course

Dates: April 9–May 4 (20 days)

Review for each AP Exam by the AP Government and Politics Course Description units; vocabulary tests covering several units; comprehensive final exams in each subject. Students prepare themes and concepts review packets.

Unit 8: Life Beyond the Exam

Dates: May 7–June 16 (26 school days)

Senior projects paper and presentation; movie reviews; current events discussions